THE CATHOLIC CAMPUS PARISH OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW MEXICO

PARISH MISSION STATEMENT

The Aquinas Newman Center is a permanent Community of the Catholic Faithful, established as a parish of the Archdiocese of Santa Fe at the University of New Mexico. While its primary mission is to the University Students, Faculty, Staff and Administrators, the parish community genuinely welcomes all who wish to participate in the work and worship of the parish. As a Newman Center, we have the mission of proclaiming the Word of God and presenting theology to an academic community that finds in our parish an intellectual and spiritual basis for becoming and remaining committed Roman Catholics.

From the desk of Steve Herrera, Director of Liturgy and Music—Pope launches Pauline Year with its unique ecumenical dimension. <http://www.pauline-year.com/>

In celebrating vespers in St Paul's Basilica, Benedict XVI said "that the action of Church is credible and effective only to the extent that its members are willing to personally pay for their fidelity to Christ in every situation." Dedicated to the bimillenary of the Apostle's birth, the year will be celebrated with pilgrimages and many liturgical and cultural events.

The year dedicated to Saint Paul which Pope Benedict XVI announced today will have an important ecumenical dimension. Inspired by the example of the Apostle to the Nations, the Pauline Year will show "that the action of Church is credible and effective only to the extent that its members are willing to personally pay for their fidelity to Christ in every situation."

In the Roman basilica dedicated to the Apostle to the Nations, the Pope stressed this afternoon the witness, which united Paul and Peter up to their martyrdom, during the first vespers for the Solemnity of Sts Peter and Paul.

Planned as part of the celebrations of Saint Paul's birthday (which historians place between 7 and 10 AD), the Pauline Year—from June 28, 2008 till June 29, 2009— will be in the Pope's words "a series of liturgical, cultural and ecumenical events as well as pastoral and social initiatives inspired by St Paul's spirituality."

"There will be conferences and special studies on St Paul's writings which will improve our understanding of the wealth of learning they contain—a real legacy for humanity redeemed by Christ. Around the world in local dioceses, shrines and places of worship, religious, educational and welfare institutions bearing St Paul's name or inspired by him and his teachings will be able to organize similar initiatives."

"Last but not least," the Pope said, "a special aspect that will need much care at the different stages of the Pauline bimillenary is its ecumenical dimension. Especially involved in bringing the Good News to all the peoples, the Apostle to the Nations did all he could for the unity and harmony of all Christians. May he lead and protect us in this bimillenary celebration, helping us progress in a humble and sincere search for the complete unity of all the parts of the mystical Body of Christ."

As if embodying that hope, a delegation from the Ecumenical Patriarchate of Constantinople took part in the service listening to what Benedict XVI said. It was sent by Patriarch Bartholomew to repay a visit made by a Holy See delegation to Istanbul on the occasion of the Feast Day of Saint Andrew, founder of the Orthodox Church, "These meetings and initiative are not mere courtesy calls between Churches," the Pope said, "but are meant to express their shared commitment to do all that is in their power to hasten the day when there will be full communion between the Christian West and East."

"This basilica, which has seen many ecumenically charged events," Benedict XVI noted, "reminds us of how important it is to pray together to plead for the gift of unity, something for which Saint Peter and Saint Paul devoted their entire existence till the ultimate sacrifice of their blood."

Albuquerque Interfaith; Families, Economics and the Future of Democracy.

The Albuquerque Interfaith core team at the Newman Center will hold two "House Meetings" on two consecutive Sundays, July 13 and 20 from 9:30-10:30am at the Center. Sign up for the meetings begins on the Sundays of June 29 and July 6 in the lobby.

Our Catholic Tradition recognizes a moral call for the economy and how it treats people, a moral obligation that all families should have a place at the table and that all people should have the means of subsistence.

In the last 50 years, the economy has grown tremendously. We produce more, and more efficiently than any economy in the world. But the fruits of that growth have not been shared. Productivity has skyrocketed, but wages have fallen. Inequality is the highest it has been since the Great Depression. Middle class working families struggle with one, two, and sometimes three jobs, worrying about health care, retirement and their children's future.

While understanding statistics, history, and policy is essential, we also need to understand exactly how those forces are affecting the families in our congregations, schools, and communities. How are these forces affecting your family? How are they affecting the Newman Center? How are they affecting your community?

How can we change the conversation this election season so that candidates address an economic agenda that considers our covenantal obligations to each other and to our families? How can we act collectively to reinvigorate our democracy? What are we called to do? Come join us and see.

I am blessed again to have this opportunity to thank the members of the Aquinas Newman Center Community for celebrating our friendships and goodbyes at our lunch together on June 1. To say the least, I was happily overwhelmed by the many embraces, smiles, cards, gifts, and memories that were shared with me that day. In gratitude, I am leaving the Aquinas Newman Center and New Mexico a better person than when I arrived. New Mexico is the Land of Enchantment not because of its beautiful sunsets but because of its beautiful people.
